

Rent Asunder

By David I. Grunfeld

Since 1968, my practice has included family law and I have handled hundreds of divorces, probably over 1,000. I have represented:

- a husband in four divorces from different wives
- a wife in three divorces from the same husband
- a father, his daughter, and her daughter
- a husband married 50 years whose wife wanted to wait until the children died
- a husband married 50 years who just hit a $1 million lottery and agreed to split it with his wife
- a wife who called me from the airport on her way home from their honeymoon and wanted to come in immediately and sign a divorce complaint
- a young wife married three years whose complaint was that the marriage was never “consummated”
- several people who learned that their spouses were previously married, but not divorced or widowed
- many people whose spouses had left and were unable to be found
- several people who wanted to divorce their opposite-sex spouses so they could marry a same-sex spouse
- several people who wanted to divorce their same-sex spouses so they could marry an opposite-sex spouse
- several people who had lived together with their spouse longer before they were married than after

Ah, human nature!

David I. Grunfeld (dgrunfeld@astorweiss.com), of counsel to Astor Weiss Kaplan & Mandel, LLP, is a member of the editorial board of The Philadelphia Lawyer.